

O&O DiskStat 4 optimises storage space

Berlin, March 14, 2023

O&O Software GmbH, a leading provider of system tools for Windows, has announced the release of O&O DiskStat 4.0. The latest version of the award-winning analysis and management tool offers numerous new features and improved performance to help users make more efficient use of storage space.

One of the most notable improvements is the new Explorer-like navigation interface, which makes it easier for users to manage files and directories across partition and drive boundaries. Users can now also select and perform actions such as copying, moving, and deleting files and directories.

Other outstanding features of O&O DiskStat 4.0 include the ability to analyze the storage usage of directories, drives, drive groups, or the entire computer. Statistics provide information on the largest files and directories, file types by file extension, and storage usage by file category. An overview of the storage space history enables users to predict whether and when storage space will be exhausted at current constant rates.

O&O DiskStat 4.0 also offers enhanced support for cloud files such as Microsoft OneDrive. Users can now also identify potential duplicates using a highly optimized procedure and easily mark them for transfer or deletion in batch processing.

The new version also includes a variety of options for customizing analysis and management functions, including the ability to save and load analyses and treat analysis files like an existing drive.

"O&O DiskStat 4.0 is an important update to our popular analysis and management tool and offers a wealth of new features and enhancements," said Olaf Kehrer, Managing Director of O&O Software GmbH. "We are confident that our customers will appreciate the new features and improved performance."

O&O DiskStat 4.0 is now available and can be downloaded directly from the company's website. The software is available in German, English, and French. The new version is compatible with the operating systems Windows 11, 10 and 8.

Pricing and Availability

The recommended retail price of O&O DiskStat 4 is 29.95 USD. O&O offers a 5-computer license for use on up to five computers or servers for 49.90 USD. All prices include 19% VAT.

Interested users can find a free test version of O&O DiskStat on the O&O website: <https://www.o-o-software.com/en/products/oodiskstat>. The trial version allows users to clear storage space for 30 days.
